The Divex Low Magnetic Dry Suit is a hard wearing and proven drysuit. Manufactured from double lined 7mm neoprene, suit integrity is exceptionally good. All seams are triple glued and stitched inside and out. It comes with built-in neoprene boots, with vulcanised gripped soles. Heavy duty, protective dimpled kneepads offer comfort and stability when kneeling on the 'bottom' and increasing the longevity of the suit.

The Low mag zipper is designed to resist jamming whilst providing a watertight seal. A pull-loop is attached to the end of the zipper. The neckseal is manufactured from single sided neoprene. Bouyancy control 'and suit comfort' is provided through the optional fitting of inflation and dump valves. For standard orders the inflation valve is normally mounted centrally on the chest, while the dump valve is usually mounted on the arm, however these can be fitted to customer's requirements. An inflation whip is supplied to connect to the inflation valve from the 1st stage.
